Senate panel terms festival 'disaster'

By PETE DANIELS Managing Editor

The Senate Select Committee that investigated the July 19-21 Ozark Music Festival in Sedalia has completed its probe and, in a 63-page report termed the festival a "disaster" and said the diligence of medical officials during the event prevented a possible 250 fatalities from drug overdoses

The report also noted that the committee is now "personally aware of damages in excess of $100,000 ... to private property and businesses loss."

On top of that, the committee said, it knew of $68,373.08 in damages sustained by various state agencies as a result of the rock festival.

The committee was appointed by Sen. William Cason of Clinton, president protem of the Missouri Senate, on the last day of the festival. Members of the bi-partisan panel were Sen. Richard Webster. chairman; Sen. Ike Skelton, vicechairman; and Sens. Lem T. Jones Jr., Donald Manford, Norman Merrell and Emory Melton.

The findings were released Friday morning in news conferences in Jefferson City and Kansas City, held by Sens Webster and Skelton.

The group, which held hearings in Sedalia, Jefferson City and Kansas City. took down more than 1,500 pages of testimony, spending another 1,000 hours in investigation and research, the report says.

The report's conclusion states: "The Ozark Music Festival can only be described as a disaster. It became a haven for drug pushers who were attracted from throughout the United States. It became an exchange point for the transfer of large quantities of drugs which were being transported in inter-state traffic. It left behind an unbelievable number of young beople who were suffering from the effects of narcotics and an untold number of young people who were introduced to hard drugs for the first time. One young man is dead. and another is paralized.'

The committee said it has come to the conclusion that the music festival was possible because "proper legal advice was not given to the Department of Agriculture or the governor, because none of the four attorneys charged with the responsibility at various stages of the transaction had ever read the contract in full."

The state contracted to lease the Fairgrounds for the festival for $40,000, the initial bid of the promoters, Musical Productions Inc., Kansas City. The report also notes that "the promoters expressed great surprise that the state had accepted such a low figure. Concerning the festival itself, the committee made these observations: "> Sex orgies were openly advertised.

✓ Every hard drug known to law enforcement officers was openly advertised and merchandised.

Frequently nude women promoted drugs with advertisements painted on their Motorcycle gangs perpetrated acts of extortion, rape and physical violence upon those in attendance.

✓ Tens of thousands of young people who had not been a part of the drug culture entered this sordid atmosphere under the allusion that it was in fact an 'Ozark Music

The committee also praised local and state law enforcement agencies for their work. The report says, "The adjutant general, upon being advised of the event, issued an early warning. The director of public safety, upon taking office July 1, issued statements of great concern. The superintendent of the Highway Patrol correctly evaluated the situation and gave a timely and correct analysis of the occurrences which could be expected. Col. Smith recommended cancellation of the contract and laid out a method which would have resulted in a minimum cost to

The report then charges that "the 'red flags' which were so visible to those who are charged with law enforcement and security were invisible to other state

The committee noted that "misrepresentations were made" by the promoters of the festival, but insists that the true nature of the event should have been obvious to state officials. It bases that conclusion on the following itemized facts:

 ✓ Two hundred and thirty thousand tickets were printed.

✓ One hundred and seventy-six thousand buttons and arm bands were ordered. These were to be used by people

Committee kept its Sharp jumps probe expenses down in earnings by oil firms Sen. Richard Webster, R-Carthage, was allotted a budget of $8,000 to investigate last July's Ozark Music Festival, but his panel spent only about $2,200 in salary and expenses for the investigator it hired, it was reported Friday.

The Senate Select Committee hired Robert Teare of Illinois to probe possible durg sources for the Festival.

During his investigation, Teare went to Springfield, Ill., and while there was criticized by Gov. Christopher Bond for investigating the background of some of the governor's aides who formerly worked in Illinois state government.

According to Webster, the estimated 1,500 printed pages of transcripts were all paid for out of the Senate operations

Hugh Sprague, aide to the governor, said the "heartening" news out of the report was the committee's recommendation for a type of Missouri Bureau of Investigation within the Highway Patrol. The governor has urged establishment of that for two years, but bills have failed in the Senate.

But the investigating unit "must have the right to carry evidence to the attorney general's office and request injunctive relief, to deliver a complaint," Webster

There is little state law on this subject although the Patrol in the past has suggested the attorney general's office bring suits in circuit courts in cooperation with the local prosecuting attorneys.

Asked what effect the rock festival and the Senate probe would have on confirmation of Agriculture Director James Boillot, Webster said:

"You must look at the whole record and not at just one incident. He was candid before our committee. He took the responsibility. He was the captain of the ship. Yes, it will have an affect, but I wouldn't vote against him just because of

Summit crisis over resolution

RABAT, Morocco (AP) - The Arab summit ran into a major crisis today with Jordan voting to oppose any move to return the west bank of Jordan to the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Foreign ministers of the 20 Arab countries, whose leaders begin the summit meetings Saturday, voted for a resolution that would strip King Hussein of sovereignty over the west bank, occupied by Israel in 1967.

Under summit procedural rules, the recommendation will be placed before the kings and presidents for a final decision.

The recommendation was originated by Syria and cosponsored by Egypt.It has been the main item of disagreement since the ministers began their preparatory meetings Tuesday.

A Syrian proposal called for a pledge from all the Arab governments not to negotiate separately with Israel but to take the negotiations back to the dormant Geneva conference, which would bring the Soviet Union back into the peacemaking

Delegation sources said Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and King Faisal of Saudi Arabia were "extremely reluctant" to return to Geneva. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, during his recent visit to the Middle East, won Sadat's support for a gradual movement toward a peace settlement. The next step would be separate negotiations between Israel and Egypt, Jordan and Syria on further territorial withdrawals by Israel. Sadat and Faisal were also reported unenthusiastic about another Syrian proposal to revive the use of the so-called oil weapon and to pool Arab oil billions for a new mobilization against Israel. The other key issue before the summit conference opening Saturday is the bitter contest between the Palestine Liberation Organization headed by guerrilla chief Yasir Arafat and King Hussein of Jordan for recognition as the representative of the Palestinian people on the West Bank of the Jordan River.

Arafat's chief spokesman. Said Kamal. called a news conference late Thursday night and indicated that the foreign ministers were about to recommend that Hussein negotiate for a partial Israeli withdrawal from the West Bank without consulting the PLO.

Though Syria and Algeria argued in favor of the PLO in the foreign ministers' debates this week preparing the agenda for the summit, Kamal accused all of the Arab governments of "failing to live up to their obligations to the Palestine revolu-

Heavy security precautions were being taken to prevent attempts to assassinate Hussein or other leaders. Hundreds of Palestinians and Moroccan leftists were transported from Rabat to Tangier to be held there until after the meeting.

Then Ford repeated his now familiar campaign slogan that the country needs an inflation-proof Republican Congress and not a veto-proof Democratic one.

It was perhaps Ford's most direct assault on his former congressional colleagues, but even then he tempered it. ad libbing into his prepared speech in a GOP luncheon in Des Moines, Iowa, that the Democratic leadership was acting responsibly, although "their troops run

Ford also renewed the foreign policy theme which stirred a furor Tuesday in Oklahoma City and Cleveland when he said the election of the "wrong kind of Congress" could endanger world peace.

The White House said Wednesday that Ford only meant to stress the importance of a bipartisan foreign policy. But Ford took another direct shot at the Democrats Thursday, accusing them of "undermining our foreign relations with handcuff- three-day tour of five Western states.

President and the secretary of state." The common theme of the day's speeches, however, was that Congress, not the President, spends the money and is responsible for inflation. He said he should be given time to work it out with the help of a more friendly Congress.

Ford received generally warm welcomes wherever he went, although there were a few hecklers and some negative placards among the crowds at the Iowa state capitol for a noon rally, at a ceremony in Melvin. Ill., honoring retiring GOP Rep. Leslie Arends and as he arrived at the Conrad Hilton in Chicago.

The President resumes his travels next Tuesday to Grand Rapids, Mich., where the GOP is trying to recapture Ford's old House seat, which Democrat Richard VanderVeen won in a special election earlier this year. Thureday, Ford begins a

Sirica grants Nixon request

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica today granted a request by Richard M. Nixon's lawyers that the former president be supplied with transcripts of White House tape recordings so he can prepare to testify at the Watergate cover-up trial

Meanwhile, former White House counsel John W. Dean III was on the witness stand today for his eighth, and possibly last, day of testimony.

Nixon's attorney, Herbert J. Miller, requested the transcripts recently, pointing out that Nixon had no other records available to him and could not come to Washington prepare adequately because of his illness.

Nixon has been suffering from phlebitis. a blood clot condition, since before he left the White House

He has been subpoenaed as a witness by both the prosecution and defense and Miller said recently he expected to be able to report soon that Nixon was well enough to come to Washington and testify.

However, Nixon was hospitalized in Long Beach, Calif., Wednesday night because blood clots in his leg were not responding to drug treatment and doctors said Thursday the former president may have to undergo surgery. There has been no word to the court on whether Miller's earlier prediction that Nixon would be able to testify still stands in light of his present condition.

Tempers in the courtroom became so strained Thursday that Sirica threatened to take action to prevent "a carnival atmosphere.

"I mean it," the 70-year-old federal judge said, exasperated and often angered by continual bickering and back-biting among lawyers. "If I don't get the cooperation I want, I'm going to have to do something about it.'

As its second witness, the government planned to call E. Howard Hunt Jr., the former CIA agent and White House consultant, who pleaded guilty to being one of the principals in the Watergate break-in. But pointing out that Hunt cooperated with the investigation "only grudgingly and, we believe, incompletely," the government asked that the court - rather than the prosecution - adopt Hunt as its

Doctors consider surgery for Nixon

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Hospital sources say former President Richard M. Nixon is no longer in pain as doctors consider whether he will need surgery for his phlebitis. A relatively simple and safe operation pain.

could be performed if anticoagulant drugs given by mouth and by injection fail to prevent formation of clots in Nixon's swollen left leg, his physician, Dr. John C. Lungren, said Thursday. The former president was admitted to Memorial Hospital Medical Center here Wednesday night because oral anticoagulation therapy at his San Clemente home was not thinning his blood sufficiently, Lungren said.

He said tests were being conducted to determine if Nixon is "in the small group of paradoxical cases, i.e., people for whom anticoagulation cannot be maintained by drugs.

Lungren did not say when a decision on surgery would be made.

If surgery is not necessary, the doctor

A hospital spokesman said medical personnel who saw Nixon Thursday said he was resting comfortably and was not in "If anticoagulant therapy cannot be adquately established and controlled, then surgical intervention is a real possibility.' Lungren said.

In most cases of this sort, the surgeon ties off the main blood vessel carrying blood from the lower body to the heart. This prevents clots from breaking loose in the legs and traveling to the heart or lungs. where they can cause death. Other veins take over the function of the vein closed off

It was the second hospitalization here this month for Nixon, who was discharged Oct. 14 after 12 days of tests and anticoagulant therapy. He was reported doing well after his return to San Clemente until Lungren found the oral drugs were not doing the job.

It was not immediately known what effect Nixon's hospitalization would have on the Watergate cover-up trial in Washington. Lungren said after Nixon's first hospital stay that it would be at least a month and possibly three months before he could travel safely.

Last week Herbert J. Miller Jr., Nixon's chief counsel in Washington, told the court that Nixon would probably be healthy enough to testify at the trial within the next several weeks.

Inflation hits churches

By GEORGE CORNELL AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Although the churches these days are spending about as much money on new buildings as they were four years ago, they're getting a third less for it in actual new facilities.

The shrinkage results from the inflationary bite, which has amounted to 74 per cent in construction costs since 1967. Not only that, but raising money for church building projects has become tougher.

The Lutheran Church in America recently declared a moratorium for the rest of this year on purchasing sites or building new churches because of high interest rates and exhausted loan funds.

There simply is no money available for those purposes, says the Rev. Donald L. Houser, director of the church's mission division.

Other denominations were having similar pains.

Robert H. Kilgore, director of the Southern Baptist division of church loans, says that for the first time in 10 years, the agency is being forced to prepare priorities for restricting its

Inquiries from local congregations about loans have doubled in the past six months, he said, many of the requests coming from churches that ordinarily would get local financ-

But the on-the-scene resources have dried up.

"Now the banks just don't have the money to loan," Kil-Where loans can be obtained, the interest rates have jumped. Kilgore says that his agency until now has been able to keep its loan rates at 8.5 per cent, but the funds available at that rate are exhausted.

Additional money will cost the agency 11.5 per cent, he says, forcing it either to up its own rates to church borrowers

Figures from the U.S. Commerce Department's construction section show that although actual outlays currently are about as great as they were in 1970, the real amount of building is down about a third.

In 1970, churches put $931 million into church construction, with inflation cutting the actual new space obtained to $747 million worth, based on the 1967 dollar.

This year, churches also are putting a similar $900 millionplus into new building projects, according to the latest seasonally adjusted annual rate but, based on the same 1967 dollar, only getting $500 million worth

Women planning service

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) - The Rev. Dr. Jeannette R. Piccard of Minneapolis says she and two other women ordained as Episcopal priests will celebrate the eucharist in New York City's Riverside Church on Sunday.

The three are planning the service despite a declaration of the Episcopal House of Bishops that they are not priests.

The ordination of the Rev. Dr. Piccard, 79, and 10 other women last July was called "irregular" by the church, be-cause the Episcopal Church's General Convention has not yet permitted the ordination of women as priests. "It seems incredible that sex alone can be a barrier to the priesthood," the Rev. Dr. Piccard said Wednesday. "What are we living in — the Middle The House of Bishops voted last week in favor of ordination of women in principle but did not act on ordinations that have already taken place. Seven Protestant and Roman Catholic women's groups will sponsor Sunday's service with the Rev. Dr. Piccard as a celebrant. Other celebrants will be the Rev. Alison Cheek, 47, of the Diocese of Virginia, and the Rev. Carter Heyward, 28, of the Diocese of New York.

Family singers

The Faith Baptist Church, 2331 South Ingram, will be the host of the Nickel Family singers at 7 p.m. Sunday. The singers will give a wide variety of spritual songs in the service. During the past 14 years the group has performed in 40 states and five Canadian provinces.

Children will help others

Halloween will come a few nights earlier this year when Sedalia children will "Trick or Treat for UNICEF" Sunday.

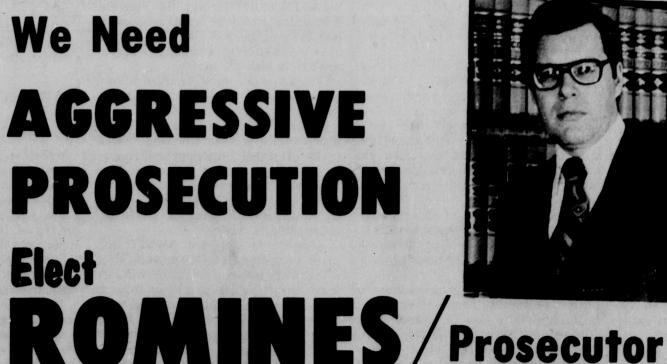

This year the local campaign for UNICEF is being sponsored by the Sedalia Ministerial Alliance. Anyone who wishes to help can call the Rev. Mark Miller at 827-2311.

The help is needed because this year UNICEF has declared a state of emergency for children in developing countries. The rising cost of food and fertilizer shortages threatens 500 million children with malnutrition and death.

In the past 27 years millions of American children have helped to raise money for children in Africa, Asia and South America.

School president defends program

JEFFERSON (AP)—Northwest Missouri State University President Robert P. Foster defends the school's operation of a multimillion dollar nationwide correspondence course in insurance sales and management.

The program is causing education officials some concern.

Foster said Thursday there is no basis for allegations that the program is inappropriate for the university or that the school is profiting through the $2,100 tuition course.

"We're not trying to run something here that's shabby and of poor technical quality," Foster said. "We saw this as an opportunity to provide a needed service."

The course, offered in co-operation with the Elba Systems Corp., of Denver, offers insurance sales management and equity programs sales management.

The $2,100 tuition, one of the major targets of the course's critics, is split once they had entered the grounds Radio advertising boasted of the fact that more than 100,000 could be accommodated.

The selection of the musical groups was from those regularly used at drug festivals.

The advertising indicated permissiveness on the Fairgrounds with regard to drugs.

 ▼ The medical staff consisting of 43 persons was designed to handle an exceptional large number of drug cases.

The report then says, "The committee commends Dr. Albert J. Campbell, who was in charge of the medical staff. Without his dedication a greater disaster would have occurred. Without his candor, the committee could not have arrived, with certainty, at its conclusion. More than 2,500 people were brought to the temporary hospital ... Of these, 250 drug overdose cases would surely have resulted in fatalities had it not been for his excellent medical staff.

Following its summation, the committee recommended that the General Assembly enact specific legislation establishing guidelines for the lease of state property, and laws providing for "the regulation of the assembly of large numbers of persons in an atmosphere which leads to moral degredation and the open violation of state

Among its other recommendations was the establishment of a division of drug and crime control under the jurisdiction of the Department of Public Safety. "This division should be headed by a three man commission, one of whom should be the superintendnent of the Highway Patrol. The division should utilize the very excellent intelligence group presently constituted within the Highway Patrol.' the report said.

The committee also concluded that "the contract between the state ... and Music Productions Inc. should not have been executed," and that "the advice of the law enforcement sector should have been followed, the attorneys representing the state of Missouri should have read the contract, and legal action should have been instituted seeking injunctive relief or the revision of the contract.

The committee noted in respect to the latter that "there was adequate grounds to cancel the contract by June 8 and an overwhelming basis for the cancellation by

An estimated 100,000 persons attended the rock festival and many of them arrived as much as three days in advance. between the school and Elba with NWMSU receiving the normal yearly student fee of $330. Elba receives the remaining $1,770 for teachers' salaries, educational materials and other expenses. The state Department of Higher Education, the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and the state Department of Veterans Affairs have received inquiries concerning the junior college level program. While all the agencies have officially declined to say there is something wrong with the course, some officials have voiced concern over whether the course has any academic substance.

'We don't infer that this is an academic program," Foster said. "It's a technical program. It trains persons in their field." Students for the program, though associate in technology degrees in life recruited by Elba, must meet the qualifications required of any other student at the school. Foster said they also must be licensed insurance salesmen, while the teachers, furnished by Elba, must meet the standards applied to other vocational-technical teachers in the state.

The state co-ordinating Board for Higher Education, which controls all state-supported schools, gave the plan tentative approval a year ago, but will probably receive a report about it next month from Foster and discuss the current

Patricia Thrash of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools said NWMSU kept "us informed at all stages of the development of this program," but that the association will take a special look at it when it conducts a regular evaluation at the school next month. We encourage innovation, but insist on maintenance of standards of quality," she said. "We regularly look at institutions and typically, if they're starting something new, we take a look at it the next time around.' NWMSU reportedly began administering the program in the Kansas City area in August 1973 with about 100 students after Elba had been operating the course on its own for several years.

Since then, it has expanded to 10,000 students at centers in about 200 cities from Florida to Alaska.

Criticism of the arrangement has included charges that the teachers supplied by Elba are not qualified and the school and the company undertook their association as a solution for their economic problems.

Foster maintains the progam follows recommendations of the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education and the school's accrediting association concerning the need for reforms in the services rendered by colleges and universities.

He acknowledged that most of the persons enrolled in the course are paying the $2,100 tuition through the Veterans Administration, but he denied accusations that the program was aimed at veterans merely because the federal government will pay the high tuition rate.

Officials at the state Veterans Affairs office confirmed the program was on the approved list.

Foster also denied that the school undertook the program to solve financial problems created by sagging enrollment.

"The program is expensive to administer because of supervision that we have to do and the number of people handling the basic work in it and accounting for it," he said. However, he reported NWMSU has made about $200,000 on the program since it began, the money being used for library and instructional services as well as dormitory costs that have risen due to an increased number of empty dorm rooms. Foster said the program centers oprated in the other 35 states have been given good to excellent teacher ratings. and that the federal General Accounting have both given the program approval.

Office and the Veterans Administration

Suspended police chief testifies

Suspended Sedalia Police Chief William Miller Friday morning joined the ranks of those who have appeared before the Pettis County grand jury.

Miller's presence was requested by the grand jury in the form of a subpoena filed Thursday afternoon in Circuit Court.

The grand jury called Miller into the room about 10:15 a.m. About 45 minutes later Miller was seen going into another office with his attorney, Robert Wesner. Miller returned to the jury room after about five minutes.

Thursday evening the grand jury finished hearing testimony from David Kinton, secretary of Musical Production Inc. Kinton had been in the grand jury room since 2 p.m. MPI was the promoter of the Ozark Music Festival, which is the main concern of the grand jury's investigation.

The Miller subpoena is the 26th issued by the grand jury. No indictments have been issued. The grand jury will have to finish its investigation and file a report with the Circuit Court by Nov. 25.

Remember to set clocks back Sunday

WASHINGTON (AP) - Clocks will be turned back one hour Sunday in nearly all of the United States as the nation goes on standard time for the four winter months.

The nation has been on 10 straight months of Daylight Saving Time in an experiment designed to save fuel during the energy shortage.

In a report accompanying time-change legislation signed by President Ford Oct. 5. the Senate Commerce Committee said energy savings "must be balanced against a majority of the public's distaste for the observance of Daylight Saving Time" during the winter.

Under the new law, the nation will revert to daylight time on Sunday, Feb. 23.

LIBERTY, Mo. (AP) - Some 40 parents met here Thursday night and vowed to search through the 30,000 books in the libraries of the city schools to weed out "dirty books.

The meeting followed a protest by Mrs. Shirley Doores over the book "Go Ask Alice" which her daughter brought home from the Liberty Junior High library. She had been on the book's waiting list more than a month.

Mrs. Doores said she believes the book is too filthy for 13vear-old students to read.

A five-member committee was selected to begin checking the libraries as soon as a lawyer is consulted about the legality of the proposed actions.

Mrs. Doores said she plans to submit today the written complaint that she has been asked to fill out and return to Dr. Robert E. Black, school super-

Fouled up mail gets her goat

DEAR POLLY - My Pet Peeve is with the mail service. We live in a mobile home park and the mail is delivered any time from 11 in the morning to late afternoon and by a different carrier almost every day. Mail is left at wrong addresses and at homes where the people have returned North for the summer and have left a forwarding address with the post office. The other day there were four letters in our box all plainly addressed to people elsewhere. It seems that with postage rates so high we could get better service. After every delivery the neighbors are out taking mail to the right places. — MRS. J.S.

DEAR POLLY — I have help for Yvonne who cannot copy recipes as fast as they are given on television. I keep a cassette player and blank tape ready by my TV. When someone gives a recipe I get it all down on the tape and then play it back as I copy it on a recipe card. It can be stopped and played back any time I am not sure about something and I have built up quite a recipe card file by using this method.

DEAR POLLY - I bought a large styrofoam cooler on sale for little more than a dollar and use it for a picnic basket. I keep baked beans, scalloped potatoes, etc., hot by putting them in the bottom and then laying my tablecloth over them and then other things are put on top of that. The food that should stay cold is put in another cooler with the drinks so I have a "Hot Cooler" and a "Cold Cooler." -MRS.L.S.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY - I am especially fond of a round lace tablecloth but it is not round any more. I do not want to discard this cloth. I hope someone can tell me of a simple way to get it back to its original round shape. - BENNIE.

LOS ANGELES — When you're invited to speak to 3,000 mayors and other members of the California League of Cities, what do you tell them?

You see this sea of of white faces, dotted too infrequently by the countenance of a black, a Chicano. You listen to them talk about getting a governor who will let the cities share in state income tax money; about what they can expect from revenue sharing; about how they can rid their cities of crime and maybe lure back some of the affluent people who have fled to the suburbs; about what Washington's war on inflation is going to do to, for or

You tell them the cities will never get enough money from state and local taxes. or federal revenue sharing, to make up for the fact that our urban areas are populated by too many people who are poor. uneducated, cheated, unable to carry their share of the burden.

You tell these city officials that they delude themselves if they think their communities will ever be free of this burden unless their national government develops and finances programs to help some 30 million Americans to break the vicious cycle of poverty, ignorance, hopelessness and despiar.

You point out that 43 of every 100 U.S. blacks under 18 years of age live in poverty as against 15 white youngsters out of 100. Well, the first thing you tell them is that You tell your audience that an even higher percentage of Chicano, Indian, Puerto

You don't really have to remind your audience that these people live mostly in our cities, and that no city can be healthy when so many of its people consume much and produce little.

You tell these mayors, city planners, city council women, that it is ludicrous to talk about reducing crime where so many people are jobless, are victims of rank discrimination by city officials themselves, victims of national policies that say certain people are "expendable" in the war on

You quote a distinguished former policeman and police official, Patrick V. Murphy, now head of the Police Foundation, as saying: "Greatly increased opportunities for employment for the youth of this nation and for members of minorities in all age groups is an important

"There can be no meaningful, longlasting effort to reduce crime permanently without a major reduction in the rate of unemployment."

You tell these city officials that unless they are prepared to believe Murphy, they are conning themselves and each other with their cries for "law and order." You tell them bluntly that a lot of them delude themselves into believing that police repression is a lot easier to achieve than

You remind this audience again that the national ATTITUDE is the key. An attitude flawed by racism, class snobbery, greed. The affluent fearing that the only way the poor can get money is for someone to take it from the rich. Few people willing to believe that if poor people got more money they would buy more sugar, cars, TV sets, beans, and everybody would be better off.

You tell these city officials it is imperative, then, that they pressure President Ford and the Congress to pursue a policy of full employment, even if it means making government the employer of last resort; that it is crucial that decent day care programs exist so the 6,804,0000 women who are heads of households can work instead of many being forced on welfare; that they insist on decent housing for all families in settings of both economic and racial integration; that they move zealously against bigoted educational policies which doom the underprivileged to generation after generation of inadequate schooling.

You tell these city officials all this. Then you sit on the plane en route home wondering if they take you seriously; if they believe; or if they merely conjure up their old passions and prejudices and dismiss you as a "soft-headed, socialist-

On the one hand, Americans are encouraged to learn what is going on in their communities and in their nation. The large percentage of people who answer "don't know" in every opinion poll is cited as a symptom of our lack of caring. our noninvolvement, or of the failure of the media and of leaders to inform the public.

On the other hand, when they are called to serve on juries, people are supposed to have perfectly pristine minds, untainted by prior knowledge or opinion.

Actually, anyone who still has an "open mind" about Watergate meaning either that he has never heard of the scandal or is totally unaware of the many damaging

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - Rep. E. G. "Bud" Shuster, R-Pa., the enthusiastic president of the House of Representatives' freshman Republican class, tried to stifle a newspaper's disclosure of his stock finagling by buying out the newspaper.

Before coming to Capitol Hill, the young congressman was a high-powered business executive. He parlayed a small data equipment firm into a valuable property, then got out of it with a reported profit of

Along with the money, Shuster got a pack of legal troubles, including a multimillion-dollar suit alleging he helped perpetrate a stock fraud - a charge he

Feeling the congressman's constituents had a right to know about his financial dealings, the highly regarded and conservative Bedford (Pa.) Gazette carried an exhaustive series.

Written by editor Ned Frear, the articles gave ample space to Shuster's side of the court dispute. To the credit of co-publisher John Biddle, a Shuster campaign supporter and personal friend, Frear was not hampered in his pursuit of the facts.

But Biddle's understanding of the Constitution's free speech guarantees was apparently not shared by his friend Shuster. The congressman took Biddle aside one day and for 20 minutes chatted about his interest in keeping his business

Then, he came to the point. He wanted to buy out Biddle's half of the Bedford Gazette, an almost certain way of ending editor Frear's hard-digging stories about Biddle listened to Shuster, but made no commitment to the congressman. Meanwhile, the Gazette is still doing its job of informing Shuster's constituents about his financial hijinks.

When we reached Shuster, he first claimed he was "astounded" at our report that he had attempted to buy off his gadfly. Then he confirmed that he had "preliminary" conversations with Biddle for purchasing an interest in the paper. It was "ridiculous," he told us, to think his Merry-go-round inquiries had anything to do with the Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., lunched a Gazette's series.

Attempt to buy out critical newspaper

The case itself, Shuster said, has now been settled and "not a penny" of his own money would be paid out for the settlement.

Footnote: Shuster has established an enviable record in Congress for almost never missing a roll call. Apparently he demands the same kind of attendance from his staffers because he summarily fired a top aide, Kay Smith, when she had to serve on the Watergate grand jury. Shuster insists it was merely a staff 'restructuring.

REVERSE DISCRIMINATION: For years, we have been writing about discrimination against blacks. Here is a reverse story about discrimination against

It happened in the General Services Administration, whose civil rights director is an articulate black ex-army officer named Edward Mitchell. He has unceremoniously dumped his white deputy, John Brosnahan. Shoved down to a lesser job was Brosnahan's white assistant, Dolores Symons.

Mitchell charged Brosnahan with insubordination and failure to obey orders. In response, Brosnahan and Symons alleged that their black boss repeatedly promoted less qualified blacks over whites Yet Brosnahan had a 15-year record of commendations, many in defense of blacks.

A General Accounting Office report. meanwhile, charged that the GSA had one of the government's least effective civil rights programs. GSA's vital civil rights watchdogging on government contract work has been further hampered by the firing of Brosnahan.

Footnote: Mitchell told my associate Les Whitten that he had tried to promote Borsnahan and had "met with gross insubordination." A reduction in force, not reprisal, caused him to give Ms. Symons a new job, he said. As for the criticism of his office, Mitchell said, with military pride, that it was unfair. "All charges have been answered," he said firmly.

Thurmond ordered an aide to find out when South Carolina's institutions opened and learned that Clemson would begin classes on Aug. 21. Thurmond immediately put up a clamor to advance the date of the tuition benefits to Aug. 1. If the House had gone along, Thurmond's maneuver to help Clemson student-veterans would have cost the taxpayers $40 million. A spokesman for the senator said Thurmond was looking out for the "interest of all veterans" ... Sen. Marlow Cook, R-Ky., has been howling about our recent reports on his high living. He was quoted in Kentucky as complaining, "Jack Anderson has got to be the most malicious man that ever walked this earth." Life of the TV husband

By DOUG KNEIBERT

I recently read where the National Organization of Women (NOW) was more outraged than usual over a source of sex discrimination that, for some unknown reason, had escaped detection.

Face O'Hara Celtics

Tigers close out road slate in K.C.

By VAUGHN HART Sports Editor

"The biggest thing right now since a winning season is out of the picture is to try and look like a football team," says Greg Cook, Smith-Cotton's football coach.

'There is a tendency for seniors to let down in situations like this," he said of the Tigers' 1-6 record. "But they didn't let down last week in Hannibal, and I don't expect them to let down from here on out, no matter what happens," he concluded

Although Cook says he won't change his game plan, he will use junior quarterback Bill Rabourn much the same as he did against Hannibal in last week's 12-7 loss.

Rabourn, who will be a strong contender for the starting spot next season, alternated with senior Rick McRoy most of the second half against the Pirates.

"Bill's a better deep passer," said Cook. "That's mainly the reason we used him so much last week. I felt our receivers could get open deep and go a little more with our passing game," he

This week's game, a Saturday afternoon contest in Kansas City against O'Hara, is scheduled for a 2 p.m. kickoff. It's the final road game of the season. Six of S-C's first eight games were scheduled on the road.

Ninth-year coach Denny Staub, whose Celtics play as independents, has a 4-2 record to his credit. The only O'Hara losses came at the hands of Lee's Summit (6-0) in the season's opener, and a 28-0 shutout against powerful Kansas City O'Hara, which was shelled by the Tigers last year 54-14, has a seasoned club with 18 lettermen. One of those lettermen is junior quarterback Mark Smith, who started last year against S-C. Smith is the team's scoring leader with 42 points.

Halfback Ken Staub is the only senior in the backfield. His running mate on the other side, Bob Brown, and fullback Bob Leo are both juniors.

O'Hara runs basically out of the Slot-I. Although the Celtics list no one over 200 pounds, they have good size in senior tackles Chuck Aquino (195), Brian Walker (185) and Jim Burger (185). Senior center Mike Fisher is listed at 180 pounds.

'O'Hara is the type of team that thrives on others mistakes." Cook noted earlier this week. "And everyone knows how our mistakes have hurt us this season. We've got to stop making

Cook went on to say that he disliked afternoon games. "It's an advantage to them . . . we've only played one (against St. Joseph Lafayette) this season," he continued. "They play at least half their scheduled in the afternoon, giving them the advantage in that department," he added.

Cook listed only senior fullback Bill Deuel as a question mark for the game. Deuel suffered an ankle injury against Hannibal.

With McRoy and Rabourn possibly alternating at quarterback, the balance of the backfield will find Deuel, Marvin Spruell, Ray Newbill and Bob Trautman sharing the Mark Vinson and Larry Miley will start at the ends; DeWayne Stratman and Dennis Van Baale will open at the tackle slots, while guards Jim Barnes and Bob Paul along with center Doug Young round out the starting lineup.

Cook also said there would be no changes on defense for last week's contest with Hannibal. He listed his defensive alignment as Allen Fox and Jim Giokaris at ends, Stratman and Bob Campbell as tackles and Barnes as the noseguard. Paul and Trautman will be the linebackers with Spruell and Dennis Onwiler at the corners and Miley and Mike Mack as the safties.

O'Hara and S-C have had only one common opponent, Jefferson City Helias. The Tigers suffered a 12-7 setback against the Crusaders in Sedalia; O'Hara blasted Helias at Jefferson City, 33-0.

Smith-Cotton wraps up its Central Missouri Conference season against Columbia Hickman next week at Jennie Jaynes Stadium. The curtain falls on the 1974 campaign Nov. 8 with Springfield Parkview visiting Sedalia.

Former CMSU SID accepts Royals' post

KANSAS CITY (AP) - The Kansas City Royals today announced the promotion of Dean Vogelaar to public relations director of the club.

Vogelaar, 27, replaces Bob Wirz, who has been named director of information for baseball by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

The Royals also named Bryan Burns promotion director and assistant public relations director. Bill Beck, who joined the Royals staff recently in promotions and as coordinator of the Royal Lancer program, will also assume the duties of traveling secretary.

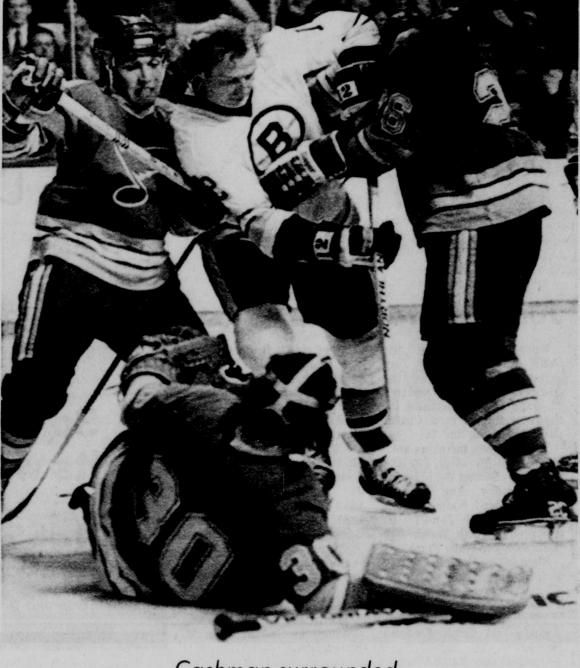

Vogelaar joined the Royals Dec. 1, 1973, as traveling secretary and assistant public relations director. Prior to that he served as sports information director for Central Missouri State University at Warrens-

Virdon signs 2-year contract with Yanks

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Virdon calls himself a realist, so you'll get no pie in the sky promises from the manager who signed a two-year contract with the New York Yankees Thursday

"I don't think anybody can predict a pennant," said Vir-don, who piloted the Yankees to a second-place finish in the American League's East Division last season. "Who knows what can happen in six or eight months?'

Just about everything that could happen did happen to the Yankees last season.

The club stumbled badly for a while and was a game under .500 at 61-62 when Virdon decided they could still win their division. And they very nearly did, finishing just two games behind the Baltimore Orioles.

"They were doing the things you need to do to play winning baseball," Virdon said. "That's why I thought they would start winning.

If you want to overbid as do most bridge players, it pays to have a little bit of luck to go with your overbidding.

South's three notrump call was really optimistic. There just wasn't any suit available to bring in nine tricks. In any event he bid it and West opened the three of spades. East rose with the ace and led the suit back. West won with the jack and led a third spade which South took.

It was obvious to South that East held the king of hearts and that an attack in that suit would leave South down one before he ever got around to taking tricks. So he decided to play his ace of clubs to see what would happen. The queen dropped and South's overbid was ready to pay off. He led a club to dummy's jack and cashed the ace and king of diamonds. Then he ran the rest of the clubs, stopping in his own hand.

Finally he threw East in with a spade. East cashed two spade tricks and then had to lead away from his king of hearts up to dummy's ace-queen.

Young man sought for information

KANSAS CITY (AP) - The FBI is circulating a drawing of a young man who they believe might be able to provide information about the disappearance of Lizabeth A. Wilson, a 13year-old from suburban Prairie Village, Kan., who has been missing since July 7. The drawing is a composite from descriptions obtained from witnesses who were in the area when the girl left the Prairie Village municipal swimming pool to walk to her home three blocks away.

Special agent Paul C. Young emphasized the young man depicted in the drawing is not suspected in the disappearance but is believed to have been in the area when the girl dis-

The man is believed to be in his late teens or early 20s. of medium height and build with long, stringy brown hair. At the time he was believed wearing a blue denium work shirt and levis covered with colored patches.

The man may have been driving a bright metallic green sports car with the word "LOVE" in white lettering on one or both sides of the car.

Injuries are fatal for three-year-old

KANSAS CITY (AP) - A 3year-old boy died in a hóspital Thursday afternoon of injuries suffered earlier in the day when he was struck by a car while crossing a street.

Otis D. Standifer, son of Ms Donna Marie Standifer, was crossing the street with his aunt, Denise K. Standifer, 16, when they were struck. The girl was treated at a hospital but not admitted.

Population is up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Census Bureau estimated today that the nation's population as of Sept. 1 totaled 212,216,000. This was an increase of 155,000 over the previous month and 1.5 million over the same month a year earlier.

STRAIGHT TICKET

For County Auditor -GERALD R. (JERRY) BARR

INSTRUCTIONS TO VOTERS

MARY HELEN GRIMES

On receipt of his ballot the voter shall forthwith, and without leaving the enclosed space, retire alone to one of the voting booths provided, and shall prepare his ballot for voting in the

Should the voter desire to vote a "straight" party ticket he shall place a cross (X) mark in the circle immediately below the party name. SPLIT TICKET If the voter desires to vote for one or more candidates on more than one party ticket, by voting what is commonly called a "split ticket" he may place a cross (X) mark in the circle immediately below one party name and mark cross (X) marks in the squares at the left of the names of candidates on other tickets for whom

Where there are two or more candidates for like office in a group, a cross (X) mark in the square to the left of a candidate's names automatically votes against the candidate whose name appears within the same horizontal lines in the column under the circle in which appears the cross (X) mark, unless the voter indicates another candidate to be voted against by drawing a line through such candidate's name.

WRITE-INS If the voter desire to vote for one or more candidates whose name or names do not appear on the printed ballot he may do so by drawing a line through the printed name of candidate for such office, and writing below such canceled name the name of person for whom he desires to vote, and placing a cross mark in the square at the left of such name. The squares so marked shall take precedence over the cross marked in the circle.

All candidates of the party whose circle is marked shall be counted as voted for excepting where squares are crossed preceding the names of the candidates in other columns. If two or more candidates for the same office are thus designated, neither more candidates for the same office are thus designated, neither shall be counted. If the cross (X) is not placed in the circle immediately below the party name at the head of the column, but does appear in the squares opposite the various candidates' names, then only these names shall be counted for, and none other. A cross (X) mark is any line crossing any other line at any angle within the voting space, and no ballot shall be declared void because a cross (X) mark therein is irregular in form.

For Recorder of Deeds -

For Prosecuting Attorney -

For Collector of Revenue -

For County Treasurer -

For County Auditor -

It is unlawful to deface or tear a ballot in any manner or to erase any printed name (except as provided above in this section), figure, word or letter therefrom, or to erase any mark made thereon by the voter, or to enclose in the folded ballot any other paper or any article. If the voter defaces or tears a ballot, other paper or any article. If the voter defaces or tears a ballot, or wrongly marks the name or makes an erasure therein, he may obtain one additional ballot by returning to a judge in charge of the ballots the one so defaced or wrongly marked. He shall at once mark and vote the ballot and the spoiled ballot shall be marked "void" in the voter's presence. A person who does not vote a ballot delivered to him shall, before leaving the polling place, return the unvoted ballot to the judges having charge of the ballots.

A ballot placed in the ballot box without any marks shall not be counted. Ballots shall be counted only for the person for whom the marks thereon are applicable; when a voter places a mark against two or more names for the same office, none of the candidates is deemed to have been voted for and the ballot shall not be counted for either candidate.

Before leaving the booth the voter shall fold his ballot in such a manner as to conceal his marks thereon. He shall mark his a manner as to conceal his marks thereon. He shall mark his ballot without undue delay. He shall then deposit his ballot in the ballot box being used at that time and shall quit and leave the enclosed place as soon as possible.

Energy study supports mandatory fuel saving

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration's still-secret "Project Independence" energy study strongly supports mandatory fuel-saving meas-ures, coupled with accelerated U.S. oil production.

It suggests mandatory conservation measures might include a gasoline-mileage standard for cars, and lighting and insulation standards for build-

Judicial system is explained

Kiwanians heard a talk on the Missouri and federal judicial structures at their meeting Thursday noon at the Bothwell

Circuit Judge Frank Meyer said he was "amazed" at the public's general lack of knowledge about the judicial structure. He said high school courses in the legal system are being instituted partly in response to this.

Meyer explained the jurisidictions and functions of the various courts in Missouri and also touched on the federal structure. He said magistrate courts are where 90 per cent of all Americans have their only judicial contact. He said Pettis County Magistrate Court handled about 400 criminal cases and about 100 civil cases in the last month.

His own Circuit Court disposed of more than 700 cases last year, Meyer stated.

Special judicial commissions oversee the performance of judges, Meyer said, to insure ethical standards.

Both civil and criminal judicial procedures have become more complicated over the years, the speaker said. For instance, he said the present "modified no-fault" divorce law requires the judge to spend two to three times as much effort on

The study, some 1,100 pages stamped "Limited Official Use," was still being circulated in draft form for comment among federal agencies today, but a copy was obtained by The Associated Press.

A revised final version is to be made public around Nov. 7. It appeared unlikely that the major conclusions would

How much the nation must do depends heavily on the world price of oil, the study says. It estimates that the world price might drop from $11 per barrel to around $7 per barrel but ironically, the lower price would be harder to cope with, because it would encourage greater imports, the study concludes.

'Some combination of accelerated supply with either conservation or emergency measures would be needed," it says.

While it offers a choice for coping with an embargo, the study provides a long list of advantages for strong energy conservation steps.

'The advantages of energy conservation are: 1) it delays the exhaustion of the low cost domestic energy resources. 2)

Since grace only represents what God can and will do for those who trust Christ as their Saviour, it can and must operate apart from all human works or cooperation. All of the good workings of a man cannot bring forthe saving grace of God. All that man can do is to place his confidence in the only one who can save him, Jesus

Grace is not only seen by God saving a soul but also by providing security for the ones who are saved. This is done by continuing the grace work of God with the individual who has been saved, in spite of his many imperfections. Because God only saves the spirit of a GOD HAS PROVIDED A WAY OF SALVATION - "But God man at salvation and not the body, (that which is born of flesh is commendeth His love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners.

FOUR THINGS GOD WANTS YOU TO KNOW...

ALL MEN ARE SINNERS — "As it is written, There is none righteous, no not one; There is none that understandeth, there is none that seeketh THERE IS A PENALTY FOR SIN - "Wherefore, as by one man sin" entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned."

Democrats blamed for economic woes

CHICAGO (AP) - President Ford America for Republican congressional candidates, charging that Democrats in Congress are to blame for the nation's economic ills and will "drive the budget deeper into the red and the rate of inflation higher into the blue.

Winding up a fast-paced day of politicking with a $250-a-plate fund-raising banquet here, Ford continued his assault on the Democratic rive for what he called a "veto-proof Congress.

Ford acknwledged that there are some political prophets who think the game is up — that people are going to stampede blindly into the Democratic column."

'But I don't believe that," the President added. "... I have seen a lot of elections and I have heard a lot of wise predictions. They were almost always wrong."

Sounding the same theme he had earlier in the day in a pair of appearances in Iowa and one stop in rural Illinois, Ford said, "To do my best for the people and for America, I am going to need the help of good men and women in Congress - men and women who will help me fight government spending and whip inflation."

He said inflation has been building up campaigned Thursday through Middle for years "like a disease in the body of the economy" and that curing it will take

He said there is no simple answer to the cause for inflation, "but one big reason is government spending.'

"Who is to blame?" he asked, providing his own answer: "The biggest burden of guilt lies on the shoulders of the biggest spenders and the fact is that one political party has run Congress - and held open the nation's purse strings - for the past straight 20 years."

"That party is the Democratic party," he added. "And we cannot allow it to drive the rate of inflation higher into the blue."

"Some of the friends in the opposition seem to think that what is needed is a vetoproof Congress," Ford told 1,000 persons at a $50-a-plate luncheon in Des Moines. "The fact of the matter is that it was heavy Democratic majorities over the years which helped create most of the problems we are faced with today."

Before the luncheon, Ford stood on the steps beneath the state's gold-domed Capitol and told a crowd estimated at about 10,000 that he understands farmer unhappiness, and he added:

"I pledge to you today ... that I will do everything in my power to make sure that the American farmer is fully rewarded for services rendered. America owes that to the farmer. And so does the world.'

Prisoner offers to donate his kidney

A former Sedalian now confined at a federal prison camp in Springfield, Mo., has volunteered to donate a kidney for eight-year-old Marty Baslee.

In a letter to The Democrat-Capital, Gene Sypolt said he decided to make the offer after reading of Baslee's plight in the newspaper. Balsee's own diseased kidney was removed and replaced with one of his mother's on Oct. 8. However, last week the donated kidney burst. He is now receiving daily treatment from a dialysis machine at St. Louis Children's Hospital.

Contacted Wednesday, a prison camp spokesman said "this is the first time I've ever run across something like this." He indicated it would be at least two days before any decision could be made regarding Sypolt's possible release under custody to go to St. Louis where the operation would take place. He added that it may be necessary to contact the Federal Bureau of Prisons Office in Washington. In his letter, Sypolt indicated he has already contacted Baslee's grandmother, Mrs. Kathryn Ellis, 1823 East Ninth, and his mother, Mrs. Judy Baslee at the St Louis hospital. Mrs. Ellis Thursday termed Sypolt's offer "very generous." She has been informed by Mrs. Baslee that doctors have decided against immediate additional

Energy target date is 1985

WASHINGTON (AP) - A major government study says the United States can become independent of foreign oil by 1985, if it promotes both increased domestic oil production and mandatory energy conservation.

Beyond 1985, this draft of the "Project Independence Blueprint" warns, the nation faces the prospect of a new energy crisis as its oil and natural gas supplies finally start to run out.

The study, while making no specific recommendations, states a strong case for adopting such mandatory fuel-saving measures as a gasoline-mileage standard for cars, and lighting and insulation standards for buildings.

But the study also notes that the government must also involve itself in the market in other ways to speed domestic energy development.

In an ironic twist, it says new energy production efforts could turn out to be selfdefeating unless the government steps in with subsidies or price-supports.

One of the most important, and most unpredictable, factors in energy policymaking is the world price of oil, the study concludes.

It makes a highly uncertain guess that the price may fall from around $11 a barrel to about $7 a barrel, but concludes that the

The prosecutors contested that on Thursday and were asked by Hundley if they planned to make a serious attempt to demonstrate that Mitchell remained a part of the cover-up conspiracy under protection of the White House.

Neal answered, "Our position is that for awhile they tried to keep everybody out of trouble, including Mr. Mitchell. But finally they decided to let Mr. Mitchell go to save the rest."

Sirica's characterization of Dean was prompted by the roughest crossexamination the former White House counsel has been subjected to so far.

William S. Frates, the principal lawyer for defendant John D. Ehrlichman, focused on a series of incidents in Dean's White House career reflecting directly on his

Ordinance needed

The City Council seems somewhat perplexed over what to do with a new proposed pornography ordinance now that it has been drawn up. At the last council meeting the thoughts were expressed that the ordinance was unconstitutional, and even that it was itself obscene.

Neither of these charges strike us as particularly valid.

The local ordinance is based on other models, including Kansas City's — which recently withstood its second challenge before the Missouri Supreme Court. The ordinance's definition of "obscene." the heart of any such effort, strikes us as sound, both from legal and common sense standpoints.

As for the view that the ordinance itself is perhaps obscene. the answer is that with today's climate, legal explicitness is an absolute must. After all, we are dealing with smut that leaves little to the imagination.

The City Council has called for another ordinance that would require theater managers to enforce age limits on R- and Xrated motion pictures. The intent here is legitimate; certainly it is obvious that this has not always been done.

One thing is clear: Sedalia's existing law governing pornography and obscenity is totally inadequate and out-of-date. The city needs a new one in keeping with the times.

Faces of Boston seem too familiar

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

BOSTON — I flew to Boston on Monday, the 14th, drove down to South Boston for a look at the neighborhood, learned there was to be an anti-busing rally that night, and stuck around for a while. The rally materialized at the Sheraton in a furious honking of horns, but after 30 minutes I did an unprofessional thing: I fled.

I drove up to Portsmouth, N.H., where I had to make a speech

the next day, and sat for a couple of hours thought, this is where I came in. Nothing would have been gained by interviewing members of the crowd at the Sheraton. Every Southern newsman has seen the women of Boston before. Twenty years ago they were at Clinton, Tenn. Later they were across the street from the high school in Little Rock. They were in Birmingham, Richmond, and Charlotte tight-lipped, arms crossed, their eyes at Editor's mail once angry and uneasy. Such women are

These were the same boys and men a newsman has known before. The crude placards and chants were the same. Twofour-six-eight, we ain't going to integrate! This could have been Birmingham a long time ago, but it was Boston on a Monday night in 1974. The following day, Gov. Francis Sargent mobilized units of the National Guard, and the guardsmen lined up at the armory, sucking in their paunches, looking uncomfortable and scared. Such men are not meant for clubbing their neighbors.

not meant for rallies in the streets.

Only a fool would attempt dogmatic pronouncements on the rights and wrongs of Boston, 1974. The instincts manifested outside the Sheraton that Monday night are ancient instincts, inherited through millennia. and they are not all racial instincts either. They include the same instincts, in men and women, that cause birds to flock together, and watchdogs to obey their territorial imperative, and tigers to protect their cubs. The blacks rightfully are furious at efforts to deny them that which the courts have decreed to be theirs; and the whites suffer from the punishing rule that from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath. Art Buchwald October is for the poor

WASHINGTON - "October." my friend Sedgewicke told me as we sat on a street curb, "is absolutely the best month for

'How's that?" I asked him.

'It's just before election time, and all the politicians need us. Everyone promises that if he is elected he's oing to do something for the poor. Of course, they don't, but it gives you a real warm feeling to hear everyone talking about you. Do you know that I've shaken hands with three congressional candidates, had my picture taken with an incumbent mayor, been interviewed on television with a guy running for governor, and they told me if I sit here today I might wind up in a TV commercial for a senator up for re-

"Doesn't it get you angry that they use you just for election purposes?

'I should say not," Sedgewicke replied. "I don't have anything to do and, I'll be honest with you, I like the excitement of a political campaign. A lot of poor people resent politicians coming into the neighborhood just before election time with their campaign managers and busloads of press. But I don't feel that way. I figure we're a very important part of the democratic process. If it weren't for us, politicians would have a tough time getting on TV. Have you ever seen a candidate talking to a rich person on television?'

"I must say, Sedgewicke, you have a good attitude. If I were poor, I would be very bitter about the politicians in this

'What is there to be bitter about?" Sedgewicke said. "If it weren't for poor people, the rest of the country wouldn't know how well off they were. No matter how bad things get, the politicians can always point to us and say that a majority of the people in this country really have never had it so good. Would you like a piece of my stale roll?

"No thank you, Sedgewicke."

"The only thing that disturbs me," he said, "is that there are lot more poor people now, and we're not as much a novelty as we were in previous elections. They also have us broken down in categories. Before if you were poor — you were just poor. Now you're competing with people who are 'economically disadvantaged,' 'culturally deprived,' 'senior citizens' and 'oppressed minorities.' Just yesterday a guy running for police chief came in the neighborhood, and I was about to shake hands with him for a TV station when his press representative pushed me aside and said they wanted the candidate to be filmed shaking hands with a black. Now I have nothing against blacks, but I don't think they should get priority when it comes to having their pictures taken with a guy running for chief of police. That's what you call poverty discrimination.

As we were talking, we heard a loudspeaker on a car. "Here comes the senator," Sedgewicke said as he got up and brushed himself off. "Well, I've got to go to

"How do you know he'll stop here?" I

'It's in front of a supermarket. All the candidates are doing supermarkets this

Sure enough, the car stopped right in front of us, and the candidate got out.

"Aren't you going to shake hands with him?" I whispered.

"Not until the TV guys are set up," Sedgewicke replied. "Most poor people don't have enough sense to wait until the press get out of their bus. Okay, they're ready now. SENATOR, WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO ABOUT US POOR PEOPLE?" Sedgewicke shouted.

The senator put his arm around Sedgewicke and looked into the cameras. "I'm glad you asked me that. As you know I have always been concerned about the cruel poverty in this great country of ours

I started to walk away and Sedgewicke, grinning, yelled after me, "Don't forget to watch the 6 o'clock news.

White House move to tighten security

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - Less than three months after President Ford promised he would run an open White House, he vetoed a Freedom of Information bill, which would have given the public more access to government documents.

The veto was accompanied by a move inside the White House to tighten security clearances. A memo, intended for the eyes only of staff chief Donald Rumsfeld, called for establishing procedures "to ensure that only cleared personnel deal with national security materials.

The memo proposed "a system," which would "continually verify" the tight security. It was necessary, stressed the memo, "to be certain that no one who has access to national security matters is not properly cleared.

Both the veto and the security crackdown are intended to protect diplomatic and military secreta, a White House spokesman explained.

Of course, we don't wish to jeopardize the nation's security. But in the past, our leaders have used security regulations to censor the news and protect themselves. They have swept their blunders and embarrassments, their inefficiency and corruption under the secrecy stamp.

There are surprisingly few documents that must be kept secret in the interest of national security. The number doesn't even begin to approach the 20 million documents and papers that the government hides from the people

President Ford, who started his presidency with such openness, has been listening lately to Henry Kissinger. The secretary of state gets highly excitable over news leaks, which he fears could hamper his personal diplomacy

His howls about leaks helped to stimulate the wiretaps and other excesses of the Nixon Administration. Now he is again in an uproar over leaks. He is particularly upset over our stories, quoting from secret documents on the Cyprus crisis and African policy

On Oct. 7, he slashed cable distribution to the various bureaus. The European Affairs Bureau, for example, was cut from 30 to six copies of incoming cables. This was accompanied by a strict warning not to circumvent the limitation by Xeroxing secret cables.

Top aides have also been making the rounds to discuss the leaks and to impress on the underlings how much Kissinger

'It's the old Nixon paranoia," one State Department official told us. "The Secretary believes we're all out to get him. He runs foreign affairs like a mid-19th century German diplomat.

Footnote: It should be added, of course, that Kissinger's diplomatic style continues to produce amazing results

PENTAGON BLUES: The most dreaded word in the bureaucratic language, "Rif." is now being whispered in the backrooms of the Pentagon. Rif means reduction-in-

Pentagon planners believe it will take a drastic Rif to keep the defense budget within acceptable limits. The stark fact is that the inflationary squeeze has sent weapons costs skyrocketing. Inflation has already robbed this year's defense budget of a staggering $6 billion in purchasing

In modern warfare, the Pentagon chiefs believe, machines are more important than men. A B-1 bomber, for example, will cost

$76 million instead of the $46 million that was originally forecast. To maintain our arsenal, therefore, they must make drastic savings elsewhere A gigantic Rif, they fear, is inevitable. They are quietly preparing contingency plans that could reduce captains, majors and lieutenant colonels to noncommissioned officers.

"It will be (expletive deleted) bloody." one general told us.

WATCH ON WASTE: The armer rces are short of doctors to take c. of legitimate military patients. Yet in our military hospitals, surgeons perform hundreds of face-lifts each year to beautify military wives, and the taxpayers pick up the doctor bills.

Air Force surgeons alone performed 141 face-lifts last year. The number of beauty operations was even higher in the other armed services. A Pentagon spokesman explained that the face-lifts are permitted only when "space and time allow." Each plastic surgeon is required "to maintain a degree of competency in this area," a spokesman said.

BRASS RING: A brass ring, good for a free ride on the Washington Merry-go-Round, goes to Missouri's Attorney General John Danforth.

In behalf of the state, he recently filed suit against Ralston-Purina for alleged price-fixing. Danforth's grandfather founded Ralston-Purina, his father was chairman of the board and two brothers now serve on the board. Danforth's own assets consist primarily of Ralston-Purina when he entered public service.

Although it could hurt his own financial interest, Danforth said he would follow the recommendations of the chief prosecutor on the case.

Sirica referred to a meeting in the office of defendant and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell in which convicted Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy proposed the intelligence plan which ended up as the Watergate burglary.

While Sirica's comment about the Liddy plan was made with the jury out of the courtroom, his reference to Dean was made in their hearing.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that defense lawyers asked that a derogatory reference to Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau of Canada be attributed to Nixon instead of defendant H. R. Haldeman.

The issue arose Monday when the jury heard a March 22, 1973, tape which records meeting among Nixon, Haldeman, Ehrlichman, Mitchell and Dean.

No problems anticipated for calf meat

WASHINGTON (AP) - Government officials say no big problems are expected in delivering calf meat donated by distressed Midwestern farmers to hurricane victims in Honduras.

But one State Department official cautioned Thursday that "we ought to wait and see how it goes" before any further animals are consigned by farmers for food relief in Honduras or similar

About 1.000 calves are scheduled to be slaughtered Saturday by a packing plant in Dubuque, Iowa. An estimated 70,000 pounds of veal then will be frozen and trucked to Miami for shipment to Honduras.

The animals were originally to be killed and dumped by National Farmers Organization members in Wisconsin because they said it was not profitable to

But NFO said later it would donate the meat to Honduras if President Ford would arrange delivery. An agreement then was worked out with the government and the

Kinton testifies for second time

David E. Kinton, secretary of Musical Productions Inc., promoters of the Ozark Music Festival, testified Thursday morning before the Pettis County grand jury. Kinton appeared before the jury on Oct. 10. No new subpoena for him was on file,

Last Friday newsmen were told by Phil Cantmall, a Kansas City attorney for Wells Fargo, that he had heard Kinton would testify Thursday. The Wells Fargo man was in Sedalia last Friday to testify before the grand jury along with two other representatives of the security firm.

Wednesday morning the jury again questioned Sal Brancato, vice president of MPI. Brancato first appeared before the grand jury on Oct. 11.

The grand jury Thursday also issued a subpoena for suspended Sedalia Police Chief William Miller, Miller, who was suspended earlier this month on 11 allegations by Sedalia Mayor Jerry Jones, is to meet with the grand jury behind closed doors at 10 a.m. Friday

The grand jury's investigation into the Ozark Music Festival has been continuing since Sept. 3. The jury's term will end the last week of November.

House trailer fire being investigated

The state fire marshal's office has been asked to investigate a fire which gutted a house trailer early Sunday morning, Sedalia Fire Chief Willis Jabas said

The house trailer belonging to Norman Paxton was located in Oak Tree Manor Trailer Court at 7 Harlan Drive. Firemen were called to the fire about 3:29 a.m. Fire officials estimated damage at $5,000. No one was home at the time of the blaze and the cause was listed as undetermined by fire officials.

"I hate to see a fire listed as undetermined," Jabas said. "If there's any way possible, I'd like to determine the cause of a fire."

Jabas said the fire marshall was in town Wednesday morning and will probably be returning to continue his investigation.

Nixon reported as depressed, in pain

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) - Richard M. Nixon was reported on Thursday to be depressed and in heavy pain as his doctor weighed whether surgery is needed to combat the former president's phlebitis. Dr. John C. Lungren said the decision on whether Nixon will need surgery will depend on whether hospital-administered anticoagulant drugs are successful in treating the inflamed veins which have painfully swollen Nixon's left leg.

In phlebitis surgery, the inflamed veins are often tied off.

'He came in last night for tests and didn't expect to stay," a source close to Nion said. "They told him it was a very dangerous situation, and when they told him this he became very depressed and grumpy.

Violinist Oistrakh dead at 66

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) David Oistrakh, brilliant Soviet violinist who taught his art to many and bloomed lately as a conductor of world repute, died in an Amsterdam hotel Thursday

He was 66 and death was believed caused by a heart attack.

Tributes to the artist poured in from the great names in music.

Oistrakh arrived in Amsterdam on Oct. for a series of concerts with the Amsterdam Philharmonic. He conducted six, the last one two days ago, and had been the soloist in three of them.

A spokesman for the Amsterdam Philharmonic called Oistrakh's death "a terrible loss for the whole music world. He was not only a great violinist, but a great teacher. Our musicians said they learned tremendously from him in the weeks they worked together, and that it is an experience they will never forget."

Oistrakh's widow Tamara accompanied his body back to Moscow. Their son Igor, a prominent concert violinist, often appeared with his father but never equaled him in the estimation of critics.

Oistrakh, who was Jewish, was known for the continued development of his art throughout his career, which began at the age of 5. His repertoire included nearly all major works in the violin literature of the last three centuries.

He won numerous awards at home and abroad, and the official Soviet news agency Tass called him "a synonym of per-

Oistrakh was the premier violinist in the Soviet Union for 30 years, and became an international star through concerts all over the world and numerous recordings. He made his American debut at New York's Carnegie Hall in 1955. He was a sensation and went on a triumphant American tour of recitals and appearances with leading American orchestras. American violinist Yehudi Menuhin called Oistrakh "a sort of friendship bridge among countries all over the world," and mourned his passing as "a tragedy to the world's music. Fellow violinist Isaac Stern said Oistrakh was "something very special in the music world ... He inspired an unusual loyalty from friends and students."

No evidence linking coffee to heart disease

BOSTON (AP) — Researchers say they find no evidence that normal coffee drinking leads to development of heart disease. But the report asserts that no conclusion can be drawn about possible effects of coffee on persons who already have heart disease.

A study published Thursday in the New England Journal of Medicine concluded that there was no evidence that coffee "is a factor in the development of atherosclerotic cardiovascular disease.'

The researchers found that men who drink more than four cups of coffee a day had a higher than expected death rate from cardiovascular disease.

But they said that could be because of a link between coffee drinking and cigarette

Noncoffee drinkers smoked an average of 8.7 cigarettes a day, while those drinking more than seven cups of coffee smoked an average of 21.8 cigarettes daily, the study reported.

"The relation of overall mortality to level of coffee consumption appears to be based on the association between coffee drinking and cigarette smoking," the study

was convicted April 2, 1973, in California on a charge of interstate transportation of a stolen vehicle. He served part of his sentence in a prison camp in El Reno, Calif., and later was transferred to the Federal Correctional Institute at Sypolt was free on $3,000 bond on seconddegree burglary and stealing charges and $500 bond on a bogus check charge when he was apprehended by FBI agents in February, 1973, in California.

The burglary and stealing charges were dismissed last January in Pettis County Circuit Court because Sypolt had begun serving his sentence for the federal conviction in a California federal prison.

"Yesterday he was in very bad spirits. The clot situation is worse than they thought. He was having heavy pain. Unfortunately, he was working constantly at home on his book and papers, so at least

The source said allegations that Nixon may be using his illness to keep from testifying at the Watergate cover-up trial "really doesn't bother him at all. He doesn't care what people say."

he'll get a rest here.'

"The thing he is really worried about now is his health," the source said.

The blood-clotting could threaten Nixon's life. A clot in his leg could break loose, travel through the bloodstream and lodge in his heart.

Nixon's hospitalization was unexpected. Lungren had maintained to newsmen that Nixon was doing well.

In a written statement Thursday, Lungren said Nixon was undergoing tests to determine if the former president is "in the small group of paradoxical cases, i.e., people for whom anticoagulation cannot be maintained by drugs." Lungren said Nixon was taking drugs orally and by injection to build up his anticoagulant level to prevent more blood clots from forming.

Lungren said Nixon was admitted after three hours of diagnostic tests showed "defects or blockages of blood vessels" which could be caused by phlebitis-induced clots in the lower left leg. There was "near total occlusion, or blockage, of blood flow in the deep system of the thing," the doctor added. Lungren said there were new or old! clots in the left thigh.

Anticoagulants prevent the formation of new clots but have little ability to dissolve existing clots.

Nixon is secluded in a room on the top floor of Memorial Hospital Medical Center, 25 miles south of Los Angeles.

A hospital spokesman said if nonsurgical treatment is successful in checking the phlebitis, Nixon may be able to leave the hospital late Friday or on Saturday.

After Nixon left the hospital Oct. 14 following 12 days of treatment, Lungren said the lung clot had disappeared naturally and that the phlebitis had responded well to treatment.

Lungren said before Nixon's discharge that it would be at least a month and possibly as long as three months before the former president could travel without endangering his health.

Ray's brother alleges deal by Foreman

MEMPHIS (AP) - Lawyer Percy Foreman had something "worked out" to get James Earl Ray pardoned for the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and tried to persuade Ray's family to pressure him into pleading guilty, Ray's brother testified Thursday. John Larry Ray, himself serving an 18year sentence for being an accessory to a bank robbery, told a federal court hearing that Foreman called the family together in December 1968 and told them James Earl Ray should plead guilty.

"Foreman said he now wanted Jimmy to enter a plea of guilty but that Jimmy wouldn't enter it," Ray said. "So, he wanted his brothers and sister and father to put on pressure."

He testified on the third day of a hearing on his brother's claim that he is entitled to withdraw his March 10, 1969, guilty plea and stand trial for murder. Among James Earl Ray's contentions is that Foreman coerced him into pleading guilty.

John Ray quoted Foreman as talking about an arrangement to make it appear that "some guy named Hooker" had obtained the guilty plea so that Hooker would receive "a half million dollars worth of publicity" in a race for governor. After Hooker's election, Hooker would pardon his brother. James H. Lesar, one of James Earl Ray's attorneys, asked if John Ray was referring to John J. Hooker and Ray replied: "The guy who lost the election for governor and was running again.'

John J. Hooker Jr., a Nashville lawyer, ran unsuccessfully for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1966 and was the party's unsuccessful nominee in 1970.

Hooker, contacted afterwards, said he was sending a telegram to the presiding judge saying he is willing to testify there is 'absolutely no truth to this vicious falsehood.' Earlier a firearms expert testified he did not see how authorities concluded from a nick in a window sill that King's assassin fired a shot from a rooming house

Hebert MacDonell, Corning, N.Y., said he could not determine what object caused the nick, although authorities theorized that it was made by the recoil of the barrel of a rifle they say was used to kill

Beer kegs taken from local business

Police reported Thursday that three beer kegs were reported stolen from the Hamms Sales Co., 1218 West Main, sometime Tuesday night. The three kegs were taken from behind the business and one of them was found a short distance away. Their value was set at $100.

It was also reported to police by Dan Jones, 3124 South Kentucky, that a house he owns at 600 East 16th was vandalized Tuesday night. Police reported that shaving cream had been poured on the floors and the plumbing was clogged. No estimate was placed on the damages.

Biologist vouches for pet porcupine

ASHLAND, Wis. (AP) - Dr. Robert Brander doesn't know the exact roles that porcupines play in the ecology of the north woods, but he can vouch for them as pets.

Brander, a biologist who heads Northland College's Institute of Environmental Studies, has a 6-month-old pet porcupine named Blondie.

"She's a great pet, very tame," said Brander, who brought Blondie home for studies on a porcupine's eating habits. Among other things, he has found out she
